Growing bonsai
Home and Garden Bulletin No. 206

Bonsai are miniature trees grown in pots. The aim of bonsai culture is to develop a tiny tree that has all the elements of a large tree growing in a natural setting. This look is achieved principally by branch and root pruning and shaping. This bulletin describes the five basic bonsai, gives points of consideration in choice of a style, discusses procedures in obtaining and shaping bonsai, and tells how to care for the plant. It also includes a bonsai guide.

FARMERS' BULLETINS

Feedlot and ranch equipment for beef cattle. (F 1584) 17 p. 25¢.

This revision describes and illustrates equipment and housing important to beef cattle operations. It also tells stockmen how animal handling facilities may be designed and constructed for strength, durability, and safety.

How to control a gully. (F 2171) 15 p. 25¢.

Control of gullies will reduce soil erosion and sedimentation, increase economic value of the land, and improve the beauty of our countrysides. This revised bulletin discusses the conservation practices that can be used to control gullies. These practices include fencing and revegetation, diverting runoff, constructing ponds and grassed waterways, and installing structures, such as inlets, spillways, and chutes.

HOME AND GARDEN BULLETINS

Food and your weight. (G 74) 38 p. 35¢.

This revision discusses daily calorie need to maintain desirable weight. It tells you how to control weight by controlling the amount of food one eats, decreasing or increasing activity, using USDA's daily food guide, and watching Credit, a capital idea. Sound, color, 16 mm, 13½ minutes.

In this fully-animated film, a modern farmer is transformed into a delightful cartoon character—a big game hunter who goes on safari through the financial jungle in search of the elusive quarry of profits. Sprinkled throughout with light humor, the educational film establishes the path our farmer-hunter must follow to bag profits from his farming operation. Tips on how to use credit profitably is the design of this film. And while it is primarily directed at the wise use of credit in agriculture, the principles explained are applicable to borrowing in other businesses and to personal finances. TV cleared.

The man in green. Sound, color, 16mm, 28¾ minutes.

This is the story of the State Forestry organizations. "The Man in Green" is many men . . . the State Forester, the District Ranger, the Service Forester, and the Urban Forester. These men function in their State capitals, and in their States' forests, private woodlands, and metropolitan areas. Their work affects almost everyone. TV cleared.

Who shall reap? Sound, color, 16mm, 28 minutes.

Dramatizes the never-ending struggle of farmers the world over to protect their crops and livestock from the ravages of insects, diseases, weeds, and other pests. It contrasts the primitive ineffectual pest control methods still in use in many parts of the world with sophisticated modern control technology developed in this country and the substantial benefits to the consumer and to the nation resulting from the use of this technology. The film focuses on current research efforts to develop even more efficient, safer methods of protecting food, fiber, and forests from pests to meet the needs of an exploding world population. TV cleared.

Selecting and growing shade trees
Home and Garden Bulletin No. 205

Directed to homeowners, this publication gives information about shade trees that are suitable for home planting in the continental United States, excluding Alaska. It discusses the characteristics of deciduous and evergreen trees, and explains in some detail how to plant and care for them.

FARMERS' BULLETINS

Johnsongrass . . . as a weed. (F 1537)
18 p.

This revised bulletin explains ways to control Johnsongrass, one of the ten worst weeds in the world. Detailed instructions are given for cultural control such as crop rotation, fallow plowing or disking, pasturing and mowing. Farmers are advised to use a combination of cultural and chemical methods for best control of the weed.

Identification and control of honey bee diseases. (F 2255) 18 p. 30¢.

This new bulletin describes the common bee diseases present throughout the United States and offers recommendations for preventing and controlling the spread of these diseases. Special sections tell the reader how and where to send dead bees or diseased samples of the comb for diagnosis, and how to compare characteristics of various brood diseases of honey bees.

HOME AND GARDEN BULLETINS

Como comprar productos lacteos. (G 201-S) 16 p. 25¢. FOR SALE ONLY.

This bulletin, in Spanish, explains how to buy and use dairy products and how to use USDA grades in buying. Tips are given on eight different kinds of milk and five kinds of cream. Information on grades of butter and cheese is also included.

That the best will be ours. Sound, color, 16mm, 18 minutes.

This film covers the exacting handling, processing, and labeling requirements that meat and poultry packers must heed in preparing their products, and the inspection controls used to help insure that the requirements are met. It shows the shopping, handling, storage, and preparation steps that consumers can take from the foodstore to the home table, to get the best buys and to insure that these foods stay as safe and wholesome as they were when they left the packing plant. TV cleared.

Minigardens. Sound, color, 16mm, 15 minutes.

This film is designed to create interest among urban dwellers in the possibilities of growing vegetables and flowers. The back porch, a patio, or a balcony, can be sites for a few growing plants to beautify your surroundings and provide highlights for meals. The endless joys of growing things are presented in an informative package. (Produced by Walter J. Klein, Co., for Burgess Seed Co., with assistance from USDA). TV cleared.
